LETTING OFF STEAM

Your invitation to experience a historical venue that's unlike any other.

Housed within the former Grand Junction Water Works, the London Museum of Water & Steam tells the story of how London received its water supply throughout the ages. Built in 1838 the site was responsible for providing clean and safe drinking water to millions of Londoners for almost 200 years. Today the Museum stands as testimony to the genius of Victorian engineering, boasting one of the world's largest collections of working steam-powered water-pumping engines.

Whatever the event you are planning, the London Museum of Water & Steam invites you and your guests to enjoy it in unique and memorable surroundings. As you drink, dine and dance you will be immersed in the white-hot fire of the industrial revolution.

Hire includes exclusive use of the venue, The Grand Junction Engine House and the Waterwheel Courtyard. Guests can arrive from 6PM and party until Midnight.

MEET OUR MONSTERS

Charles Dickens once described our engines as 'Monsters' because of their incredible size and engineering genius. All of our engines are lovingly cared for by our dedicated engineering volunteers, and we are one of the few places left on earth where you can experience beam engines working under steam.

You have the option of adding them to your hire of the venue for that added touch of wow factor!

* The following prices are subject to VAT

A large, ornate, brass-colored steam engine is the central focus of the image. It features a large, circular, domed top with several brass handles and a central assembly of pipes and valves. The engine is set in a grand, dark-colored room with high ceilings and large columns. In the background, a complex system of pipes and machinery is visible, along with a spiral staircase on the right. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the metallic surfaces of the engine.

MONSTERS: 90-INCH CORNISH ENGINE

Installed in 1846, the Cornish Engine is the largest beam engine working under steam in the world. For over 100 years the engine was literally the beating heart of the Capital, providing safe drinking water to its citizens. Set over three floors, your guests can walk in the footsteps of Dickens, and experience this marvel of the Victorian era.

½ hour running - £400*

MONSTERS: WATERWORKS RAILWAY

Incredibly fun and quirky, the Waterworks Railway is a must-have experience for daytime events and early evenings. Though not original to the site, the railway it represents was an important part of the industrial revolution.

1 hour running = £350*

MONSTERS: STEAM HALL ENGINES

While you dine and dance the night away you are surrounded by some of the most beautiful examples of steam-powered engineering. As static objects they are incredible to look at, and in motion they are tremendously exciting. Every engine was donated to the charity, and each has its own story to tell. You have the option of hiring them individually or as a group.
